

NEW

MADONNA UNIVERSITY

LIBRARY

Exhibit

The Legacy of the Black Medical Schools and Departments in the United States

WEDNESDAY
APRIL 22

6:00 P.M.

Madonna University Library

Dr. Anita Moncrease, Professor of Internal Medicine and Pediatrics at Wayne State University, will present an engaging and interactive talk about the research of the exhibit.

The Legacy of the Black Medical Schools and Departments in the United States exhibit tells the story of Black medical schools from 1868 to 1968. This exhibit tells the forgotten stories of the 19 Black medical schools and departments that existed at one time in the United States.

The exhibit panels and displays contain photos and artifacts never before collectively presented by the handful of local historians who are experts on the Black medical schools and departments' experience.

The Legacy of the Black Medical Schools and Departments in the United States

THE LOUISVILLE National Medical College
FOUNDED 1868.

Is the only Medical School in the United States under control of Colored men.
The Regular Annual Session begins the Second Tuesday in October and continues six months.

Matriculation Fee,	$ 4 00
Admission to All Lectures,	25 00
Graduation Fee,	15 00
Scholarship,	20 00

A three years' course is required in the application for graduation in Medicine and Surgery.

TRUSTEES.
H. FITZBUTLER, M. D., Dean
W. A. BURNEY, M. D., Treasurer.

The Auxiliary Hospital fitted with the most modern appliances, within 100 feet of a beautiful park gives ample opportunity for clinical observation, being entirely under control of the Louisville National Medical College.

Created By
Anita Moncrease, M.D., M.P.H.
Rev. Don Tynes, M.D.
Dedra Seay-Scatliffe, M.S.
Rashard Ballinger
Demetrius Granberry
Brittani Moncrease, M.A.
Andre' Lee, MHA, DPA

