About the Talk

While obtaining his bachelor's degree late in his law enforcement career, Rod Sadler, a now-retired police officer, discovered his love for writing and decided to write about what he knows best...true crime. Join us as Mr. Sadler tells us about how he wrote and researched his books and crafted intriguing, detailed accounts of a series of Michigan murders, including "Grim Paradise" about the murder of a woman who grew up near Hastings.

Optional Reads:

Killing Women : The True Story of Serial Killer Don Miller's Reign of Terror

Grim Paradise : The Cold Case Search for the Mackinac Island Killer
